Dr. Mr. Snow,

I am concerned with the current "CALIF" plan for water use. I think a plan emphasizes bigger and more dams is a bad one. The water resources in California are already stressed. I think a plan that endorses water conservation is more opt. We have seen such a plan work for the Mono Basin. The rivers are a great natural resource for everyone not exclusively the farmers. Like we have seen in the Mono Basin the waters are part of the public trust and it is the government's responsibility to make it possible for

63. To conserve from so all can enjoy. Thank you for your time and hope you will consider my opinion as representative of many Californians, and consider this when making any water use plans.
